"Jane Anderson's bittersweet transgender domestic comedy-drama is thoughtful and touching, full of wit and wisdom.

A real audience pleaser."

Roy and Irma have been married for twenty-five years. They have two children. They're respected members of their church and their community. When they go to their pastor for marriage counseling, Roy confesses that he identifies as a woman and wants to transition genders. The play explores the complexities of marriage, family, and deconstructs the very notion of love.
